

Study Tips: Project Stakeholder Management

Managing stakeholders is an important aspect of project management. If you don't normally have a formal process for working with stakeholders on your project, pay special attention to the tools and techniques for this section.

You should know the various ways to identify, communicate, and manage the expectations of stakeholders.